

Anna Saeki

RENACERE, PIAZZOLLA INMORTAL

at Regattabar in Boston

Anna Saeki, a tango singer, will be holding her first solo concert, reciting the works of Astor Piazzolla, at the prestigious Regattabar in Boston, Massachusetts on March 26, 2014. Anna always seeks and values originality when singing Argentinean Tango. By singing the works of legendary Astor Piazzolla who is known to have blended tango, jazz and classical music to bring revolution in the industry, Anna is proliferating his innovative spirit and revolutionizing Tango music as a Japanese artist. In addition to her concert in Cambridge, she will be performing as a guest artist at the National Cherry Blossom Festival Opening Ceremony in Washington DC on March 22, 2014 as well as at the prestigious Blue Note Jazz Club in New York City on March 24, 2014.

In 2005, she was chosen as one of the "100 Japanese People Respected in the World" in "Newsweek Japan". Anna received an invitation for 25th La Falda Tango Festival in 2008, and was the first foreign artist to receive the honor of being chosen as one of the "20 people who contributed to Tango". In 2010, she was invited to perform at El Salón Dorado in Casa de la Cultura (Ministry of Culture) in Buenos Aires to celebrate the Argentinean bicentennial, a first for a Japanese performer. Anna is regarded as a gran artista, ("great artist"), in Argentina. In addition to her music career, Anna spends her time speaking at the "Be Myself" lectures, passing on life lessons by speaking through her experiences. She has been invited to give lectures and mini-concerts by municipality, nursing associations as well as medical and social welfare communities in Japan. Since 2011, Anna also has her own radio program, Anna Cafe, which is on-air weekly at various FM stations in Japan.
