

Making Sense of Japan's

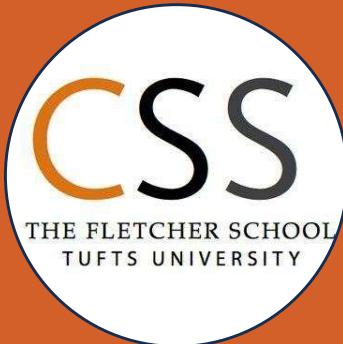

Consulate General
of Japan in Boston

Defense Policy:

Continuities,

Changes, and Challenges

Wednesday, January 28, 2026 at 12:00 PM

The Fletcher School, Tufts University

Cabot Building, Room 703

The Consulate-General of Japan in Boston and the The Fletcher School at Tufts present a talk by Ryo Kiridori, a research fellow at the National Institute for Defense Studies(NIDS), who will discuss significant developments in Japan's evolving defense posture.

- Welcome: Professor Rockford Weitz
- Opening remarks: Consul General Seiichiro Takahashi
- Lunch will be provided.

- Research fellow at the National Institute for Defense Studies.
- Kiridori was cross appointed to the Defense Policy Bureau of Japan's Ministry of Defense, where he was engaged in drafting Japan's mid-to-long-term defense strategy called National Defense Program Guidelines (now National Defense Strategy) as well as in various policy-level strategic dialogues, including the Japan-US Extended Deterrence Dialogue.

Register through Eventbright

<https://www.eventbrite.com/e/making-sense-of-japans-defense-policy-tickets-1980658232090?aff=oddtdtcreator>